Q2B) ... AND WHY

Why do adults use emojis differently than young people do? It seems to be more organic when teenagers use them.

Honestly, I feel like it's just the timing.

Usually teens don't immediately spam the laughing emoji (see ex.) when we see something funny. We might say lol or lmao or just write out something like 'Haha'. It's awkward writing that out as an explanation but whatever.

Why do you think adults use emojis differently than teenagers? (for eg the thumbs up emoji)

diff era so diff mindset mayb

adults' conversations usually are more formal so will not be appropriate to use too many emojis becuz appear as as unprofessional

Different generations so hard to keep in pace with their texting styles... also dont understand

Generation gap and adults way of texting are more mature to say they use emojis for different purposes, adults tend to use for work so i guess they cant use too weird or like random emojis whereas teenagers use them in random chats so its fine

Adults perceive emojis directly as what it is but sometimes kids will have different perception. For example I use smiley face when I am happy but my kid sometimes use it when he is telling me a bad news.

sense of humour are different loll??

Why do so many teens use so many emojis when they post things?

Hi,

I study social media and coach social media. I can answer your question.

People (not just teens) use emojis when they post on social media for several reasons.

First, it's easy. Free tools like the Jamfoo crazy text generator produce emojis and smilies. People don't have to remember which punctuation signs get a smiley face to appear when they use the tools. Here you will find more information about the Jamfoo crazy text generator and other free tools.

Next, emojis express emotion. If someone is happy, they don't need to write out "I'm happy." Clicking a happy face is quick and expresses the feeling.

Also, emojis are popular. When using them, people feel confident the emojis will be understood and appreciated.

Thanks for your question.

MOTIVATION

Why thumbs up emoji?

- Emblem like emoji vs non-emblem like emoji

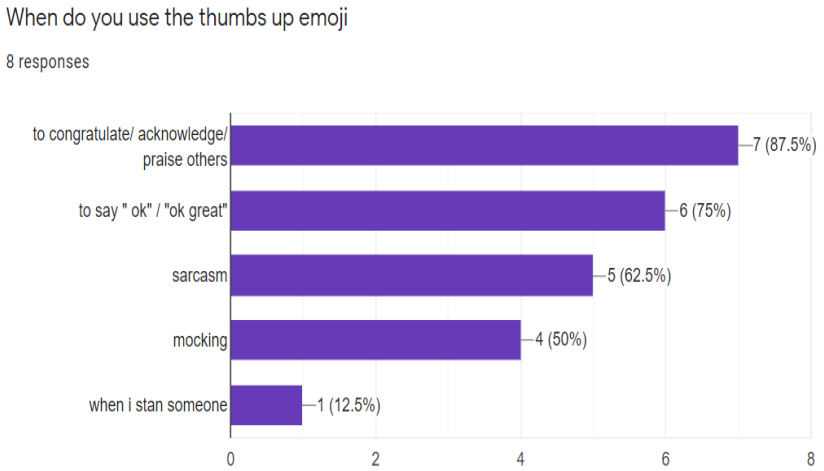

Why age group difference?

- Relevant in daily lives to know more

INTERESTING THINGS NOTICED + TAKEAWAYS

INTERESTING THINGS

1. Relationship between one's understanding of sentiment behind thumbs up emoji & how one uses it

2. Multiple emojis vs single emoji

(teenagers) vs (adults)

👍👍👍 vs 👍

→ intensity

3. Adults' responses when I used emoji in an ironic/sarcastic manner

[6.35 pm, 19/01/2022] Dad: The poodle this morning got reserved already

[6.35 pm, 19/01/2022] Dad: So most likely we cant get it anymore

[6.36 pm, 19/01/2022] Me: oic 👍

[6.38 pm, 19/01/2022] Dad: I thought u like this one alot?

[5.57pm, 19/01/2022] Mum: I have a last min meeting ltr

[5.57pm, 19/01/2022] Mum: So i will reach home quite late

[5.59pm, 19/01/2022] Me: 👍 👍

[6.01pm, 19/01/2022] Mum: Why good leh?

TAKEAWAYS

1. Have a new understanding of what emoji is

Mere expressions → gestures

Decorations → Tool

2. Depending on social circle, age, personality etc, one's interpretation and usage of emojis can be totally different

→ In addition to the understanding of sentiment behind the emojis

eg. ew

- Adults most of the time interpret and use emojis in a straightforward manner

3. Emojis succeed because they are not a language

- Important pillar for communication → gestures and physical space

4. Emblems, Emblem gestures & emblem-like emoji

- Nameable gestures
- Emblem gestures have precise forms and stable meanings
- May seem universal but actually arbitrary and culturally specific (eg thumbs up)

THANK YOU!
